Dear Friend,

On behalf of our entire production team, I'd like to thank you for taking part in this important documentary. We've asked you to help because the story you can tell may help someone very much. Please know that we will be here to support you and make you as comfortable as possible.

Sure, being on camera is not an everyday experience for most people. But rather than finding yourself uncomfortable, we hope this may actually be fun! Our interview team has been especially chosen to make this a positive experience for everyone involved, and all you have to do is relax and know that they are here to help you tell your story.

It is important that you understand that the video in which your interview may appear is being prepared for use in litigation (to settle a dispute by means of the law). However, videos like this are not generally admissible as evidence in a trial. That means no one will contradict you, argue with you like in a "Perry Mason" TV show or ask you to produce evidence supporting your story. We simply want to record your impressions about the person or circumstances that have brought us together.

Our purpose is to help the two sides of this dispute come to an agreement without ever having to go to court and wasting the time, money and resources of those involved. Your own truthful impressions – something we like to call word pictures of the events involved – may just help everyone come to such an agreement. For that, everyone is grateful to you.

Thank you again for being a good citizen by getting involved in this process. You are making a real difference in many peoples' lives, and you should find that a good reason to be very proud of yourself, just as we are proud to have the opportunity to work with you.

Sincerely,

Don Cely
